

Report of the VPFA
For Council, December 2nd, 2018

Good evening council, with the semester winding down there not a whole lot of new projects have begun, so I have focused on continuing my current projects. I will give you updates on how some of them are going.

Yearbook

The Yearbook is still a continuing. We have yet to hire a yearbook writer to work under Janna, however we feel this will help make the job more attractive as we've increased the rate of pay but for a shorter period of time. Also the job for the 50th Anniversary History book has been put up on our website, with the goal to hopefully have someone begin work come the first week of January.

Financial documents

I've spent most of my time working on internal financial documents, namely bank reconciliations and club finance trackers. I'm particularly interested in making sure clubs properly and accurately track their finances, and I'm working with the VPSL to try and get a system implemented in the new year.

Cadre

The Cadre can now charge for advertising. On the website you can find a media kit which shows the prices and what kinds of Ads you can pay for. I hope to be actively promoting Ad sales in January.

In conclusion

This semester has gone by fast (too fast) but I'm proud of the work UPEISU has done and I'm excited to see our projects and goals all get completed by the end of the spring semester. Thank you all and have a great Christmas break.

John.
